Mayhem on the Toronado

by Dan Feiger

The July 15th trip on the Toronado was wild and wooly. The 17 LARRC anglers and guests got a taste of what fishing was like in the fabulous '50s. The 75-foot Toronado left the new Pierpoint Landing in Long Beach at 9:00 p.m. After traveling all night, at about 6:00 a.m., the boat slowed and the trolling lines were put out. Then minutes later, when I was half way through my breakfast, someone yelled, "hook-up!" Short stop for 3 fish. For the next several hours the Toronado made a series of short stops for 1 to 5 fish each. But at about 9:30 a.m. we slid into a school of breaking fish, and then all hell broke loose. For the next 3½ hours the boat never moved. The albacore crashed all around us. Making up for all the years the albies were non-existent were LARRC members Maurice Levy, Bill Pearlman and family, Bob Beaver, B.J. Greenfield, John Rhind, Jim Marshall, Marv Smith, Herb Belinky, Bob Horowitz, and Abe Cohen. The highlight of the trip was Dr. Bob's hour battle with a 60-lb. plus bluefin (The bluefin lost the battle). Bottom line—17 anglers equals 173 albacore and 2 bluefin tuna. Not Bad! Next trip, August 5th. At the time this article was written there were a few spots open, and the albies were still wide open.

P.S. Who was the LARRC member who mistakenly drove to Santa Barbara and missed out?

Qualifier 105 7-Day Calico Bass Skiff Trip

by Bob Selvin

Quality fishing for calico bass, yellowtail and yellowfin tuna highlighted the 7-day calico bass skiff trip I just returned from on the Qualifier 105.

The trip was sponsored by Ted James of J&T Tackle in Simi Valley and Craig Morton of Il Sharp jigs and plastics.

With Captain Jeff DeBuys calling the shots, we made San Benitos Island in the late afternoon of our first day. Soon after the anchor went down, one angler got the first of about 110 yellowtail on board. We got a short snap on the 'tails for what was left in the day and some bass from the big boat. We had no idea what was about to happen.

DeBuys launched the skiffs the next morning and while the skiffs are out, the remaining anglers of course fish on the Q-105. It was windy but fishable at Benitos. The calico bass bite on the skiffs was fair, but the big boat got into a great bite of quality yellows on both sardines and jigs.

I lost the first six yellowtail that I hooked because I stubbornly stayed with 25-lb. test line. I lost FOUR jigs in a row to being busted off and two on bait. Two of the six yellows that I lost were because I couldn't get the fish to the boat quick enough before the pesky seals got on them.

He was a supportive club member and frequent fisherman until a stroke cut him down. So long, Bunny, and good fishing.

BASS SKIFF TRIP

I switched to my only 40-lb. outfit and was substantially luckier as time went by. We moved to Cedros Island and then to Chester Rocks, where we encountered terrific calico bass fishing and more "homeguard" yellowtail.

Many of the 110 yellowtail we landed were over 30 lbs. and a good number over 40 lbs., including one I caught of 47 lbs. 2 oz., on bait. There were two or three yellows on the boat bigger than mine, including one 50-pounder! Not bad for a calico bass skiff trip. Meanwhile, the skiffs got an excellent bite on the calicos. On one skiff run of two hours, I caught and released about 30 fish, including a 7½-pounder. There were two bigger calicos caught, including a nine-pounder by Scott Morton, brother of Craig. We then traveled overnight to Guadalupe and found excellent conditions, beautiful weather and warm water. We had enough daylight to fish from about 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. or so and put only 35 fish on the boat. However, those 35 fish were 19 yellowtail averaging 35 pounds and 16 yellowfin tuna averaging 46 pounds. I managed to kill the jackpot fish, a nasty 65-lb. yellowfin on 25-lb. test and a Calstar 700L rod before he killed me. I was totally over-matched and exhausted after that fight. Needless to say, we lost plenty of fish due to tangles and breakoffs at Guadalupe.

On the way home, we trolled for albacore and put 20 or so small ones on the boat. I caught two on the slide, using a new Yo-zuri prism spoon that resembles a sardine.

I wound up with about 150 calico bass (released), five yellowtail, including a 32- and 47-pounder, one 65-lb. yellowfin and two albacore.

The crew was superb, as usual, and I can't say enough good things about the enthusiasm and fish sense of Capt. Jeff DeBuys—a terrific guy to fish with. However, the food was absolutely horrible and I understand that John Klein had the good sense to let the chef go that ran our trip.

Junior member Mike Epstein with his 48.3-pound yellowtail. This fish, caught on a skiff trip on The Spirit of Adventure at Cedros Island, easily breaks the 45-year-old club record for 12-lb. test line held by Lou Roloff. The fish also exceeds the recognized IGFA world record 12-lb. test class, but, unfortunately, was not submitted.

Want Higher Interest Rates/Returns?...Buy Annuities

During 1996, investors purchased over 84 billion in fixed rate annuities. For over 40 years, educators, doctors, administrators and other types of school and hospital personnel have been contributing to annuities. What do these millions of people know that the majority of us do not?

An annuity is an investment you make through an insurance company. It represents a contractual relationship between you and the company. They do not have anything to do with life insurance or any other type of insurance coverages. No one has ever lost a dime in a fixed rate annuity. The safety record of the conservative investment vehicle is unquestioned.

When you purchase a fixed rate annuity, your principal is guaranteed every day. There are very few investments which can use the phrase, "principal guaranteed at all times." In fact the only other types of investments that can legitimately make this claim are accounts of up to 100 thousand in financial institutions insured by the FDIC and certain types of insurance contracts. The safest and surest securities are issued or backed by the U.S. government. These are intrinsically considered to be risk free.

Annuities are safe, taxed-advantaged, with no probate, incontestable and they are private. No other product provides as many important features. Higher interest is just a bonus. Approved for IRA rollovers.

That's right! Over 84 billion dollars have already rolled out of CDs and over into annuities. Why? Annuities are guaranteed, interest rates are much higher, with no fees or sales charges which means 100% of your deposit goes to work for you tax deferred.

It is now possible to benefit from the potential growth in the stock market with no market risk to your capital. You can obtain stock market returns with no stock market risk. Sound too good to be true? Then call for your appointment to discover the long-term growth potential of the equity market and the safety and security of traditional annuities. Few products have been available which can more adequately address the needs and concerns of the conservative saver. Gains are linked to the stock market without any of the stock market risks.

Fishing the Good Fish

by Kristen Philipkoski

A tech-savvy fisherman has created an advanced sonar software system that lets fishing vessel operators "see" their catch before their nets hit the water.

Fisheries and the environment both suffer from inefficient fishing techniques. Fisheries make less money, and the environment is needlessly depleted of fish and other marine life that fisheries can't use.

With the help of a National Science Foundation grant, Patrick Simpson started a company—Scientific Fishery Systems, or SciFish—to develop technologies to help fisheries simultaneously protect their own investments and the environment.

FishTrek 98 (formerly known as Fisherman's Associate) combines fishery, oceanographic, and navigational data to "enable fishers to get a better return while minimizing their impact on the ecosystem," Simpson said. The newest version of the program will be released in August.

"Not only will Patrick's efforts have a profound effect on the state of Alaska, but [they will] also globally affect how people can sustain a finite resource: the world's fish stocks," said Sara Nerlove, of the National Science Foundation.

Simpson came up with the idea for FishTrek while working in the defense industry in San Diego. Working with sonar technology, he learned that using a wide range of frequencies gives a better response. As a former fisherman himself, he considered how this could translate into the fishing industry, which up until now used single frequencies in its sonar. He figured you could also use broadband, multiple-frequency sonar to more accurately determine the constitution of a fish population.

"You can identify the fish species and even the length of the fish. Once you understand what the frequency looks like, you don't even have to catch the fish to find these things out," Simpson said.

The FishTrek software contains an electronic log book and mapping package, which allows the fisher to enter sea conditions, visibility, moon phase, air temperature, surface temperature, and any other relevant information, to look for correlations between the conditions and good fish populations. The maps can be displayed, stored, and printed on a printer or plotter.

And the software is not only for commercial fishers. Sport fishers and charter boat captains can also use it to determine which areas are the best during a specific time of the year by creating or retrieving maps on the laptop or PC.

"The basic premise is that fishermen are hunter-gatherers, so the more selective they can be the better off the environment will be. The question in today's fisheries is: How can we catch what we want without a lot of bycatch?" Simpson said. Bycatch includes any marine life that fisheries are prohibited by law to catch.

The commercial fishing industry in the north Pacific throws away nearly one billion pounds of bycatch fish and marine life each year in the process of harvesting groundfish species such as pollock, cod, and yellowfin sole, according to the Alaska Marine Conservation Council.

In response to this problem, the Fisheries Management Council of each region enforces strict regulations.

"Fisheries have bycatch caps. You can catch a certain amount and after that you're shut down. If fisheries can lower the bycatch, they can keep their fishery open longer," said Steve Ganey of the Alaska Marine Conservation Council.

Fisheries Management Councils get their information from the National Fishery Service. To predict the total allowable catch, the service performs its own catches to survey catch composition in a particular area.

To kill the fish to determine how many there are seems counterproductive, Simpson said. So SciFish created a customized version of the software for the National Fishery Service.

The service can use FishTrek to reduce the number of surveys it does and get more accurate information. "They're doing quite a bit of extrapolation, and they can do a better job with the better data," Simpson said.

Although the main benefit of FishTrek is less bycatch, "it doesn't automatically mean less bycatch will be caught," Gancy said. With a longer season, it's possible fisheries could average just as much.

SciFish is also contributing to NASA's efforts towards commercialization of its Mission To Planet Earth—a program created to learn about the earth's system—by developing data products for fisheries derived from NASA remote sensors using FishTrek.

Club Membership

Over the past several years the membership of the Club has decreased somewhat due primarily from normal attrition, such as death, relocation, etc. Although the present membership base is healthy, recruitment of new members must be a continual endeavor for any organization.

Therefore, I respectfully request that each of you carefully reach into your memory bank, and think of someone you know, who is interested in sportfishing and who might be a welcome addition to the LARRC.

If you need brochures or membership applications, please contact me.

Respectfully,

Dan Felger
Membership Chairman

UASC Gets New Computer!

United Anglers wishes to thank the LARRC Foundation for their donation of two computers and printers. This equipment will allow us to improve on our data base activities, and handle the various details associated with a major statewide '99 fishing tournament. President's Message

They came, they ate, they fished, and then they ate again! For those of us who participated, the week of July 20th was both exhausting and exhilarating—it was the week of the Annual LARRC Kids' Trip. It is a time when the club comes together as one strong and shining force for one purpose only—to unselfishly share the love of fishing, the outdoors and show unconditional regard to 280 disadvantaged kids. The amount of time and effort expended by all of the club members who are involved in this project is, simply, overwhelming to the emotional senses. And, if you happen to be the Chair of the Kids' Trip, you can't help but appreciate the "pitch-in" manner in which everyone works. This, by the way, also happens on a much smaller scale when the Maritime Mentors trip takes place. I had the privilege to take part in both trips this year and I have come away wondering if we can't foster that same mentorship, sharing of knowledge and unconditional regard within the club itself. When Frank LoPreste spoke at our June dinner meeting, many members who attended commented that they learned much from Frank's presentation. They were open to learning and he was open to sharing knowledge. With the club, there is much knowledge and talent to teach as well as, I hope, the willingness to learn. So, if you find yourself at the rail and a situation comes up where you could share your knowledge, please remember our kids' trips and take time to do so. Conversely, if you could use some pointers, please don't hesitate to ask a fellow member—I'm sure they would be happy to help.

Did you know that during the 1998 LARRC Kids' Trip, kids, counselors and deckhands consumed:

- 550 hamburgers
- 400 hot dogs
- 1,200 cans of soda
- 560 individual bags of chips
- 5 cases of FamousAmos cookies
- 336 sweet rolls
- 4 dozen bagels with cream cheese
- 420 slices of cheese

Your LARRC foundation Announces the Auction of the Year.

November 23, 1998

and You Are Cordially Invited to Participate

HERE ARE THE DETAILS

Each season we members of the LARRC take some disadvantaged kids fishing on several trips. This is something benevolent that we engage in and it could be considered sort of a payback for all the good fun and fishing which we've enjoyed and it might also be construed as something that we do as good citizens of the planet. The Foundation picks up the tabs for these endeavors and having an annual auction helps create the financing.

We hope that every one in this club will contribute something of value for us to auction off. In past years we've solicited tackle and fishing gear but this year we'd like to try other goods as well. Tools, Fishing Duds, Small Appliances, Free Passes, Some service you provide as part of your business etc. Use your imagination—but the items have to be "near" new! For instance three members with private boats have already volunteered to take a small group out for a day of fishing.
